

Facing Myself Again (10.2011)

Warm and bright, like gold she shines
White and light, clouds slowly drift by
But deep inside a part has died
For what I loved simply faded away

If there was more, would you tell me?
It's so damn cold

Come back and help me to smile
Maybe just for a little while
Facing myself again
With eyes so dumb like a frozen lake

And now I try to feel again
Once again I try to find out who I am
There's only a few that still remains
And I wonder if it's me to bear the blame

For one second I am high
Just to fall once more

You could help me to smile
Maybe just for a little while
Facing myself again
With eyes so dumb like a frozen lake

Come back and help me to smile
Maybe just for a little while
Facing myself again
With eyes so dumb like a frozen lake